* Low income is defined as persons living in households with a equalised disposable income which is less than 60% of the median for The median value for All persons can be found in the table Income inequality indicators.

* Number of persons refers to the persons who were registered in the national population register at 20XX-12-31, where XX marks the reference year of the survey, and is the denominator in the calculation of the proportion of persons with an equalised disposable income less than 60% of the median income.

* Persons resident in Sweden and working in another country are largely lacking wage income. This is relatively important for the statistics in some border municipalities where commuting to other Nordic countries are common.
